Around Loose.

Notice is given in advance that this letter will be nothing if not systematic. It will discuss under three heads:

First, to Ironton and back; second, to Belgrade and back; third, Religious Meetings. The first division will include things, wise or otherwise, seen, heard or felt during two or otherwise, seen, heard or felt during two trips. The first point of importance is the Granite Quarry. Here business is being conducted on methods very different from those that characterized the Government. those that characterized the Government contract. The Syenite company is doing a large amount of very fine work. The sheds are very neat and substantial, the workmen are orderly and skillful, the railroad connection complete, and the Superintendent is a level-headed and competent business man.

Mr. Ph. W. Schneider is commencing the granite business over next the Brown farm. He has a large deposit of very fine granite, free from some of the drawbacks which beset the works on the hill above him. He has failed to negotiate a connection with the Syenite company. He does not need it. He has rock enough of his own. His railroad outlet can never be at Middlebrook. It must be at Iron Mountain, which can be easily reached from his quarry. When Mr. Schneider has established a railroad connection at Iron Mountain, he certainly ought to do a good business, as he is free from many drawbacks that formerly cramped him.

The school at the Granite Quarry is entirely too large for one teacher, and the wages are too small for the amount of work to be done, as whoever undertakes the work will discover.

The sanitary condition there is not encouring. The soil, which is merely broken-down granite, has no more filtering power than crushed glass. The rainwater soaks from the surface until it reaches the solid rock below, to which the wells are dug to get it. A cholera scare would make wild work there. Your correspondent was there in 1873, and

After the Granite Quarry, a glance must be given to Pilot Knob. An hour of pleasant chat with Mr. W. G. Dilts recalled many very pleasant memories, and your correspondent was told that it is not intended to reopen the furnace, but the work of mining Iron Mountain and by the Arcadia House, will be pushed. The old P. K. I. Co. was a grand corporation until it was drawn into an Arcadia Valley.—St. Louis Spectator. untoward partnership and overloaded. But it will come up all right, because it is honest. He was told there is one man in Iron county who claims to be perfect in grammar. Barnum ought to have him.

The English-speaking element of the world embodies substantially its progressive element, and the language of such a people must be progressive. It must be continually taking on new words and dropping old ones. The language is never perfect, and no man's knowledge of it can ever be so. To prepare a work on grammar must take years of study, any part of the world. and by the time the book is ready the language has outgrown it. It is safe to say that the so-called English language is spoken better in New York than it is in London. For a man to claim to be perfect in English grammar merely reveals his ignorance of the

Before turning away from Arcadia Valley, Is a first-class school for both sexes. your correspondent begs leave to tender sympathy over the grave of Mrs. Rosalie B. Russell. Her whole life was a positive force on the side of the right. There is a great loss when such a one is taken away. Let sectaries say what they may, of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

A few days ago your correspondent paid a visit to the family of Mr. Thomas H. Henderson, near Belgrade. It was pleasant to notice a general advance in that region. Some are erecting new dwellings, some new barns; others are cleaning out fence rows and resetting fences. New schoolhouses are being erected, and new lands enclosed. One farmer mulched his wheat last fall with good results. Messrs. Adams and Butler, of Belgrade, dealers in general merchandise, have aug20 a very fine store-room and warehouse, and are doing a healthy business.

There are also in that region quite a number of colored people, who have a good reputation for good order and industry. Silas Cole is a good gunsmith.

In respect to religious affairs over there little is being done, excepting in the way of things going to pieces. On the third Sabbath of August, by invitation, your correspondent preached at Belgrade. He found a very neat and substantial house of worship, open to all sects. No special effort had been made to circulate the news of the appointment, and there were other meetings around. The audience was not large, but was very intelligent, orderly and appreciative.

Rev. Warren was carrying on a series of meetings in the neighborhood. In regard to those meetings, there are facts that must be stated which apply to other neighborhoods besides Belgrade. Those meetings are generally held at night, and are rallying points for the owls and bats, the skunks and oppossums of society, who care nothing for anything good, and use the meetings as a pretext for bad practices. These parties know that if no mourners come forward the meeting will close, and that if it closes the fun will be stopped, and so they come up by reliefs and make a business of being converted. Beyond a question this is a very flagrant phase of the sin against the Holy Ghost, and clergymen need a caution. Brethren, hold all your religious meetings in daylight, and then preach Christ. The correspondent of the REGISTER may not be orthodox, but the Devil does not get the wool over him much. THOMAS CALAHAN.

The Wheelmen in the Valley. The trip to Arcadia last Saturday was taken by fourteen wheelmen, and was one of the most pleasant runs taken this year. In the morning Dr. G. W. Farrar, Jr., of Pilot Knob, led the party of wheelmen to the "Shut-In," about three miles east of Arcadia. It is a narrow rocky gorge running between the mountains, through which all the waters of the Pilot Knob and Arcadia walleys flow, and is one of the waters. the waters of the Pilot Knob and Arcadia valleys flow, and is one of the most romantic spots in Missouri. In dry weather, a small, thy stream of water, clear as crystal, in which the fish can be plainly seen, runs through the canon where the wheels had been left. On the way, however, the artistic member of the party was picked up with some very the court of said county, the obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony heretofore contracted between said plaintiff and defendant, on the grounds of adultery, and for the custody of their infant children born of the marriage aforesaid:

The boddest riders who attempted to ride through them were rewarded by "headers," the others got over dry shod on stepping-stones.
